

The Fiagon group develops, produces and distributes globally unique navigation systems and interdisciplinary devices for computer-assisted surgery, allowing the surgeon an on-the-spot positioning of the instrument and procedure monitoring. With our innovative products we serve customers in key markets in Europe, the Americas and Asia.

We constantly look for open minded, dynamic and passionate people to join our successful team. We are based in the Greater Berlin area. Become part of our world full of innovation and medical progress enabling advanced surgical procedures:

Senior Product Manager (m/f) (Full-time)

Your Tasks:

- Managing the complete ENT product portfolio throughout the entire product life cycle
- Monitoring and evaluating market trends, customer and user behaviours and competitor activity through market research to identify market opportunities
- Identifying potential for product improvements of existing product portfolio and implementing these in consultation with other departments
- Conceptualizing new products and realizing these in cooperation with the R&D, production quality, regulatory affairs and sales & service departments
- Continuously reviewing the product portfolio with regard to sales volume, margin, quality and market positioning as well as suggesting and implementing counter measures if needed
- Being the #1 contact person for the assigned product portfolio for all questions

Your Profile:

- Successfully completed university studies of business administration and/or any other relevant degree
- Minimum 5 overall work experience in the area of product management for medical devices
- Sales and/or business development experience is a plus
- Strong technical and/or medical understanding and commercial excellence affinity
- Very good understanding of product management related methodology, tools and systems as well as experience in project management, with track record of successful project completions
- Excellent command of English, presentation and communication skills
- Committed and results-oriented work, team player
- Willingness to travel (25%-50%)
- Resilience and flexibility

Your Chance:

You can expect a dynamic, congenial, and international team, which unites one ambitious goal: Create something exceptional. Promoting the personal and professional development of everyone is an integral part of our corporate philosophy. Our lean hierarchies allow you to contribute and grow. Teamwork and empowerment are important principles of our company and create a pleasant working atmosphere. We look forward to your self-explanatory application, indicating the possible date of entry and your salary expectations: jobs@fiagon.com

navigation on the spot.

Fiagon AG Medical Technologies

Neuendorfstraße 23 b · 16761 Hennigsdorf · Germany

Tel. +49 3302 201 21 10 · Fax +49 3302 201 21 15

www.fiagon.de/jobs